

SOCIETY BELLE IS FOUND DEAD IN HER GAS-FILLED ROOM

Mystery Surrounds Death of Twenty-Year-Old Lillian MacLea in Her Father's Mansion at Montclair, N. J.

Miss Lillian MacLea, the twenty-year-old daughter of R. B. MacLea, head of the R. B. MacLea Company, dealers in dress goods, at No. 79 Worth street, this city, was found dead in bed in her room in the home of her father at No. 47 Erwin Park Road, Montclair, N. J., to-day. On the records of the Montclair Police Department the case is set down as one of suicide by gas asphyxiation.

It was reported to the police by Dr. Synnott, of Montclair, who was summoned by the family after the discovery of the body of the young woman. County Physician Elliott, of Newark, was notified, and went to Montclair to take charge of an investigation.

Neither R. B. MacLea, nor R. K. MacLea, her brother and a member of the firm, came to New York this morning. R. B. MacLea telephoned to his office that his daughter had died of heart failure. She had been ill, he said, for several months.

The MacLea home is a fine mansion in the best and most exclusive residential section of Montclair. The family is prominent socially, and up to a short time ago Miss Lillian MacLea took an active part in most of the entertainments of the suburb. Recently, it has been reported to the police, she showed signs of melancholia, but there was nothing about her condition to warrant her family in taking measures to have her confined. She appeared to be in good spirits when she retired at 11 o'clock last night.

Found Gas Escaping.
Miss MacLea did not appear with the other members of the family for breakfast to-day and a servant was sent to her room to call her. The servant returned shortly with the information that the door of the young woman's room was locked and there was an odor of gas in the hall.

No time was lost in forcing the door. Miss MacLea was in bed lifeless. Gas was escaping from a jet in the room. Dr. Synnott was hastily called. He says that when he reached the house he found conditions such as to warrant him in expressing the belief that Miss MacLea had taken her own life. The odor of gas in the room was still apparent, and the condition of the body agreed with the gas asphyxiation theory.

Despite the protestations of the family, Dr. Synnott considered that his duty called him to report the matter to the police. Chief Gallagher telephoned to Newark to the County Physician. Neither he nor Dr. Synnott would give out any information further than the bare facts above outlined.

Members of the family who were seen declined to say any more than that Miss MacLea had died from natural causes and had not been involved in any love affair.

$32,500 VERDICT FOR WOMAN AGAINST RAILROAD
When a sealed verdict returned by the jury in the Supreme Court at White Plains that tried the suit of Miss Annie Mahoney against the New York Central Railroad Company was opened to-day it was found that $32,500 damages had been awarded to the plaintiff.

Miss Mahoney, who was a school teacher, of Brewster, sued for $100,000 for injuries received in the wreck of the Brewster Express at Bedford Park in February, 1907.

NO RED HAT FOR FARLEY DURING CELEBRATION.

Father Lavelle Denies Rumor of Archbishop's Impending Promotion.

60,000 CHILDREN PRAY.

Over 4,000 Attend Mass at the Cathedral—High Church Dignitaries Here.

According to Mr. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, there is no truth in the report that Archbishop Farley is to be made a Cardinal in connection with the centenary celebration of the New York diocese this week. The report, he says, has been circulated before, and has no more foundation now than upon previous occasions.

"The Church," said Mr. Lavelle, "is not given to doing things in a theatrical manner. If a Cardinal was to be made such an occasion as this would be the last his holiness the Pope would choose for it. The rumor is baseless."

Children's Mass held. On this, the second day of the celebration, the special service in St. Patrick's Cathedral and all the Catholic churches of the diocese was the children's mass. It was, in fact, the children's day. In recognition of it Catholic children attending the public schools were excused, without detriment to their class standing.

Nearly 4,000 children attended the mass in the Cathedral. There were nearly 60,000 children at the masses in the various churches in Manhattan and the Bronx. The Cathedral mass was celebrated by Right Rev. Mr. Patrick J. Hayes, Chancellor of the Archdiocese. He was assisted by Rev. John Murphy and Rev. Patrick O'Connor.

Rev. J. J. Byrne was Master of Ceremonies, and Rt. Rev. Mr. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, preached the sermon. The music was furnished by a choir of 75 boys in charge of Director J. C. Ungerer.

Eminent Churchmen Here.
Eminent churchmen from all parts of the United States reached New York to-day to take part in the remainder of the celebration. It is expected that every archbishop and most of the bishops in this country will be present.

The solemn pontifical high mass will be celebrated at the Cathedral to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock. Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, and Archbishop Ireland, of St. Paul, arrived this afternoon. Bishop Monahan, of Delaware, and Bishop Morris, of Arkansas, reached town during the morning.

The mass to-morrow morning will be probably the most impressive religious ceremony ever held in a Catholic church in this country.

Cardinal Logue, Archbishop of Armagh, and the other members of the hierarchy of St. Patrick's will be the celebrant, and Cardinal Gibbons will deliver the sermon.

Guests of Countess.
Cardinal Logue will see the city from a carriage this afternoon, according to present plans, and will be the guest of Countess Annie Leary at dinner in her Fifth Avenue residence to-night. Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Falconio, the Apostolic Delegate, will also be present.

In the parish churches within the jurisdiction of Archbishop Farley more than a million Catholics gathered yesterday and gave thanks for the progress of the Catholic religion made here since its formal establishment, one hundred years ago.

None of those who attended the ceremonies at St. Patrick's, where they were most notable, will ever forget their grandeur and impressiveness. Long before 11 o'clock every seat was filled, and the aisles were crowded, hundreds of late comers having to go away disappointed.

In an exquisite setting the great congregation silently awaited the opening of the service.

Interest in the Cardinal.
Every eye in the crowded cathedral was fixed upon the last group of figures in the stately, moving line. The central figure was Cardinal Logue, in his magnificence, the gleaming red robe that none but a Prince of the Church may wear. On his bowed head was the red biretta, while pendant from a massive chain of gold around his neck hung a cross ablaze with jewels. The long train of the prelate's brilliant robe was held by two pages surpliced in white. Six paces in advance of the Cardinal walked his cross bearer, while behind him were the bearers of the missal in gorgeous binding of red and gold.

The Right Rev. Mr. Lavelle, V. G., was the celebrant of the mass, and the Archbishop preached the sermon. The assisting priests at the mass were the Rev. Father O'Connor, of Dunwoody Seminary, as deacon; the Rev. Father Murphy, subdeacon; and the Rev. John J. Byrne, of the cathedral, staff master of ceremonies, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Gregory of the cathedral college. Cardinal Logue was attended by the Right Rev. Mr. Hayes, Chancellor of the archdiocese, and the Rev. Michael Quinn, the Cardinal's ecclesiastical secretary. Archbishop Farley was attended by the Rev. Dr. MacLean and the Rev. Father Lewis, of the cathedral staff.

Archbishop Farley's Sermon.
Archbishop Farley's sermon was a scholarly review of the upbuilding of the archdiocese of New York, a solemn warning against the materialistic tendencies of the age and an earnest plea for truth, justice and purity.

IN HOMERIA.
The bit of "The Merry-Go-Round," now playing at the Grand Theatre, is the latest work of the playwright, Mr. Henry Edwards and Paul West, sons, entitled "In Homeria." It will be given with next Sunday's World, words and music complete.

A STRENUOUS FAMILY.

STRAP HANGER IN SUBWAY CAR DIES FROM STRAIN

Aged Hugo Berg Suddenly Collapses After Long Ride Underground.

The strain of standing, hanging to a strap, for more than two miles in a subway car to-day caused the sudden death of Hugo Berg, an aged, white-haired man.

A fifteen-year-old schoolgirl carrying her books in a strap entered the car, which was one of a north-bound local, at the Fourteenth street station on her way to a private school for girls uptown. She walked ahead of Mr. Berg, who took the only vacant seat and took a newspaper out of his pocket and unfolded it. As he raised his eyes he saw the schoolgirl clutching her books with one arm and swaying onto a strap with the other.

The little old man—he only weighed about 110 pounds and had stopped shoulders—rose and, touching his hat, said: "Take my seat, miss."

Clung to a Strap. The girl thanked him and accepted the seat. Berg clutched the strap she had been using. He still held his newspaper and continued to read until just after the train passed the Columbus Circle station. Then he grew pale and dropped his paper. He was standing near the door. Staggering over to the guard he said:

"I can't breathe in this subway—you'll have to let me out at the next station."

The next instant he dropped unconscious to the floor of the car. The schoolgirl to whom he had given his seat screamed and rushed to him, but the guard had already picked him up and he was laid on a seat. He was breathing with great difficulty, and at the Sixty-sixth street station the guard and the station porter carried him out and laid him on a bench.

Patrolman Doughty, of the West Sixty-sixth street station, was called, and he summoned Dr. Derby, of the Roosevelt Hospital. Before the physician arrived the man was dead. His death was due to a sudden affection of the heart, aggravated by the strain of standing so long.

Mr. Berg was seventy years old, and lived at No. 237 West Fifteenth street.

FOUR BATTLESHIP FIGHT GOES ON

Senate's Vote To-Day on the Naval Appropriations Bill Will Settle the Question.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The Senate to-day by unanimous consent agreed to vote on the Naval Appropriations bill before adjournment to-day. Debate on Senator Pile's amendment providing for the construction of four battleships, as requested by President Roosevelt, instead of two, as authorized by the House and approved by the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, was begun immediately after the approval of the journal.

Senator Stone, of Missouri, spoke at length upon the necessity of building a merchant marine and a navy. He condemned speeches referring to the possibility of war with Japan and told of his visit to the Orient and his belief in the friendliness of the people of that nation.

Although interested in the fight, he had never met Roche in his life and Roche had never seen him unless he was able to see through the glare of the ring to the box occupied by Mr. Croker and his friends during the fight.

HERITIER CONFESSES THE MORGAN JEWEL ROBBERY.

LONDON, April 27.—Claude Heritier, the Swiss who was arrested in London a week ago, charged with the theft of jewelry from the residence in New York of Mrs. David B. Morgan, confessed to-day that he took part in the robbery with William O'Connell, who was taken into custody in Liverpool on the same charge two days ago. Heritier says he threw most of the imitation stones into the river and that he sold a valuable pair of diamond earrings in a saloon in New York.

He then embarked on the steamer Marquette for Antwerp, where he disposed of $200 worth of the stones to a local dealer. Heritier was remanded for a week at the Bow street police station this afternoon. The authorities are still awaiting the arrival of the extradition papers for O'Connell. The police have recovered in Heritier's lodgings two necklaces, part of the stolen jewelry.

ROPE-JUMPING GIRL IS KILLED BY HORSE'S HOOF

Five-Year-Old Child's Misstep Brings Head Directly Under Animal.

Five-year-old Catherine McCormack was run over and killed in front of her home, at No. 218 East Fifty-eighth street, to-day, by a truck laden with a ton of skins. The truck was drawn by one horse and driven by Arthur Bowsky, of No. 334 East Fifty-eighth street.

According to those who saw the accident, the driver was not to blame. The child was jumping a rope on the sidewalk, with a half-dozen other children. Bowsky was driving near the curb at a leisurely pace, but just as his horse got to where the children were playing, the little McCormack girl tumbled over backwards from the curb and rolled under the horse's hoofs.

One blow of an iron shoe crushed her skull. The ambulance surgeon who came from the Flower Hospital said she had been killed instantly.

Bowsky was arrested and arraigned in the Yorkville Court, where his employer bailed him out. Bowsky said that at the time he ran over the little girl he was driving to his home to see his wife, who had been ill for several days.

The dead child was one of a family of six, four girls and two boys. Her father is James McCormack, a policeman on the Traffic Squad.

RAISULI SLAIN BY AN ASSASSIN TANGIER HEARS

Bandit, Who Was a Power and Terror, Reported Ambushed by Tribesmen.

RETURNING FROM FEAST

Robber with Picturesque Career Recently Held Caid MacLean a Prisoner.

TANGIER, April 27.—Reports are in circulation here that Raisuli, the bandit, has been assassinated.

The native rumors current here are to the effect that Raisuli was ambushed by a band of Lemes while journeying toward Tazant.

PARIS, April 27.—A news agency here has what purports to be confirmation of the report of the assassination of Raisuli. According to the report received here the bandit was ambushed by a number of Lemes tribesmen while returning to his home from a native feast offered in his honor. Other reports express doubt as to the truth of the rumors.

If the information is true, a man who was a power and terror and a picturesque figure in the barbarism of the Moroccan hills, has ceased to trouble the government with his many raids and sensational kidnappings.

A TRIAL OF CUTICURA PROVED SUCCESSFUL

"About four years ago I had a very severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism. I was taken very ill and was soon in a high fever. I did not leave my bed for four months, and during three of those months I could not move voluntarily. The pain was so intense. My skin peeled, and the high fever played havoc with the lustre of my hair, which came out in bunches. I also had three large bed sores on my back, two on the shoulders and one at the waist. I could have sworn at the first time I saw myself in a mirror. I had lost fully thirty-six pounds, and looked like a consumptive. I did not gain very rapidly, and my appetite was very poor. When I was able to get around, I had all my friends advising remedies, and all guaranteed 'sure cures.' I tried many, but they were of little help, until I tried Cuticura. Resolute I had had no real relief. That gave me such an appetite that I felt I had starved about all the time, and I immediately began to gain in weight, my complexion cleared, and I felt better. The bed sores went very soon after a few applications of Cuticura Ointment, and when I used Cuticura Soap as directed and Cuticura Ointment as a massage, my hair began to regrow its former glossy appearance. I am really all made over, and cannot say enough for the Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. Lavina J. Henderson, 138 Broad St., Stamford, Conn., March 6 and 12, 1907."

ITCHING DEVILS

Are little patches of eczema on the skin, scalp, or hands, which are instantly relieved and speedily cured, in the majority of cases, by gentle anointings of Cuticura Ointment. Use the great Cuticura Soap, followed by warm baths with Cuticura Ointment. This treatment succeeds when all else fails, and is pure, sweet, permanent, and economical.

Get the famous Cuticura Remedies. Every House of Invalids, Children and Adults can use them. Cuticura Ointment cures the skin. Cuticura Soap cures the scalp. Cuticura Ointment cures the hair. Cuticura Ointment cures the face. Cuticura Ointment cures the body. Cuticura Ointment cures the soul.
